FR. MARK'S MUSINGS

As some of you have noticed, I have some very definite ideas about politics, and as far as I can tell, most of my ideas are quite a bit different than those of most parishioners here. This is not a bad thing. Some people say that a priest should not talk about politics from the pulpit, while others say they don't want to engage in conversations about politics. While I can sympathize with these sentiments, I do not believe either of these statements are really coming from the Holy Spirit.

I say this for two reasons: (1) The things happening in our country and in the world, especially right now, are too important not to talk about. For us Christians, they should be discussed, especially in the context of the Gospel, which means they should be discussed right here. (2) When we say we shouldn't talk about politics, I believe we are speaking from our fear, and fear is not from the Holy Spirit. The risen Christ says to his apostles, "Do not fear", and the Holy Spirit sent out the disciples to speak boldly.

Pope Francis

MAY GOD'S BLESSING COME DOWN UPON ALL YOUR FAMILIES, SO THAT THEY MAY BE PLACES OF LOVE AND FORGIVENESS.

FR. MARK'S MUSINGS

Of course, when we do discuss politics with each other, we don't want it to turn into a yelling match. My own tendency is to let my emotions get the better of me, so I have to monitor the volume of my voice and my hand gestures, especially because I have a short fuse, a loud voice, and I'm tall—this can be an intimidating combination!

Marriage counselors will tell you that couples will inevitably fight—in fact, there are times when they need to, in order to resolve an issue. However, it is important that they learn to “fight fair.” This is true for political conversations also. There are ways of not fighting fair, besides the obvious ones like threatening, mocking, or bullying.

A workshop I went to actually used a military term, suggesting that there be “rules of engagement” in such a conversation. Of course, in a spontaneous discussion, there is no time to formulate rules, but let me suggest some general do's and don'ts. (I'm not saying I follow all these myself, but I try to!) These are based on real conversations that I have had with lots of people, especially in the last year.

-Try to avoid “hit and runs.” At times I have had people make an emotional or controversial point with me, then say, “I don't have time to discuss this,” and dart away. Obviously, this isn't very helpful. On the other hand, we need to also respect the other person's time limitations. I need to periodically “check in” with the other person and make sure they do have time to talk.

-When I get emotional, I get impatient and want to get everything out at once; I'm also afraid that the other person won't give me a chance to say everything I want to say. But I need to trust the other person, and not make too many points at once or talk too long without giving the other person a chance to jump in.

-Try to avoid making disingenuous statements, such as this one I have heard from time to time: “I don't follow politics much”—then the person rattles off a long string of opinions. If you don't follow politics much, you shouldn't have so many strong opinions!

-Try not to say things that are obvious, or utter pious platitudes about politicians—these can be a tip-off that you're being defensive. Example 1: “He/she isn't perfect.” This says nothing—Mother Theresa wasn't perfect, and neither was Hitler! Example 2: “We should pray for our leaders”—yes, of course, but this is often said to deflect legitimate criticism of a politician.

-Know which words are “dirty words” and which aren't—many people seem to get confused on this. Neither “socialism” nor “capitalism” are dirty words—though many people talk as if the former is intrinsically evil, while the latter has no flaws. Neither “liberal” nor “conservative” are dirty words.

“Patriotism” is not wrong, but “nationalism” actually is. A patriot says, “I support my country when it is right, and work to change what is wrong.” A nationalist says, “My country, right or wrong,” and implicitly believes that he/she gets to define who's a patriot and who isn't. Unfortunately, there is a lot of nationalism in our country now.

-Try to be balanced. Try to get at least some of your news from sources that are more oriented toward facts than opinions, and try to talk once in a while with people who don't share your views. Don't criticize the media for “always saying negative things” about someone when they're simply reporting what the person said or did. In conversation, don't call something a person says “their opinion” when they are actually stating an established fact.

-Most especially, don't put the candidate that you oppose under a microscope, while wearing blinders as you look at your own candidate. In one extreme case, a man not from this parish told me he had read four books about one particular situation that was mishandled by the candidate he opposed—but he seemed to know virtually nothing about scandals involving his own candidate!

-Lastly, when staking out your own position, be aware of Catholic teaching, and also be aware of History.

Our pope and bishops have teachings on many issues, not only abortion. You can take a position that differs from that of Church leaders, but if you do, you should be able to give good reasons why—reasons rooted in facts, not just fears or prejudices. (I myself differ from official Church teaching on one or two things, and I can tell you exactly why.)

The thinking of both John Paul II and Pope Francis is heavily weighted toward nonviolence. Many of us believe that nonviolence is a nice idea, but doesn't work in the real world. My reading of history suggests the opposite—yes, there are lots of bad people in the world, but actually it is violence that is altogether impractical. The human tendency to look first for violent solutions to our differences is a consequence of original sin.

-Finally, History is important. When looking at the history of race relations here in Detroit, this history did not begin with the 1967 riots—a lot of things happened before 1967 that many of us aren't aware of and/or don't like to talk about. If you don't know this history, you can have a very distorted view of racial issues. I encourage you to learn this history.

MUSIC MINISTRY KICKOFF

Music is one of the top reasons people choose a church. With the start of a new season, we are looking to you to make our music ministry at St. Isidore stronger. We have opportunities for all ages to be involved. No auditions or experience are necessary to sing at St. Isidore! For more information, visit www.stisidore.church/music

The Joyful Noise Children's Choir is a fun ensemble for children and involves joyful singing and the learning of basic fundamentals of music for children in grades 1-6. The Joyful Noise Children's Choir sings at weekend Mass once per month.

REHEARSALS

Wednesdays at 5:30 PM

REHEARSALS

Thursdays at 7:00 PM
Beginning September 20

One voice can have a big impact on the worship experience. So why not give music ministry a chance and add further meaning to your worship experience on Sunday.

We've put together a simple way to help you figure out where you can best use the musical gifts God gave you. We are calling these Open Mic Sessions.

Open Mic Sessions are a great way to explore the different options of music ministry from praise teams to the choir and try it before you buy it. If you don't feel that music ministry is right for you, then you can still support the singing from the congregation.

For more information, contact Matt at matt@stisidore.church or call 286-1700 ext. 2126

K OF C MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

It's my pleasure to introduce to you the Knights of Columbus. You may already know about the Knights from our council here or from some of our other 15,000 councils worldwide. The nearly 2 Million members of the Knights of Columbus form the largest Catholic fraternal group in existence. As Knights, we serve our parish and community while working each day to create a better world through charity. If you are looking to live out your faith in a spirit of charity by helping others, the Knights of Columbus welcomes you to join us.

Knights and their families have the opportunity to become involved in the council's charitable, faith-based and social program, becoming part of our Knights of Columbus family.

Over the past decade, men like you have enabled the charitable donations of the Knights of Columbus to reach more than One Billion, Four Hundred Million Dollars and individual Knights have donated more than 664 Million hours to charity.

Since its founding in 1882 by Venerable Servant of God Father Michael McGivney, the first principle of the Order has been charity; we actively assist the Church and our neighbors in need.

We were founded to protect the livelihood of Catholic families, and that commitment means that we continue to provide our members and their families with top quality life insurance and annuity products.

No life insurer in North America has a higher rating than the Knights of Columbus.

We would like to offer you the opportunity to join us in our work for God and neighbors. As a members of the Knights of Columbus, a man does not only strengthen his faith in the here and now. Through his support of community and Church, he will form friendships with his fellow Knights that can last a lifetime. And, he can do his part to make a difference in our parish, our community and our world for generations to come.

As much good work as the Knights of Columbus has done in the past decade, we could do even more with your help. Join us and help be the difference in your community and Church.

St. Isidore Knights of Columbus will be conducting a membership drive in our parish September 8th and 9th after all the Masses. Parishioners, who are Knights will be there to answer your questions about the Knights of Columbus and our local council.

DEACON BILL

This Is Mine! You Can't Have It!

If you have or have had young children, you have probably heard more than once during an interaction with another child: "This is mine, you can't have it!" Quite often, I suppose, that an adult, a parent, an older sibling, a teacher, etc. may enter the argument, encouraging the "possessive youth" to "be nice and share." One of the many important "lessons" we are to learn in "kindergarten" is the social value of sharing. Certainly, if we read the Scriptures we can find many places where we are commanded by Jesus to "share." There is though, a difference between "sharing" and allowing one's self to be taken advantage of, by an "abusive receiver." In my limited experiences, I have met and experienced the immense generosity of parishes throughout the diocese who provide unimaginable amounts of food, clothing, baby products, and MONEY to "share" with the poor. Our food pantry, our baby pantry, St. Vincent de Paul Society, etc. could not exist outside the Christian generosity of parishioners. The command of Jesus, the "lessons of kindergarten" are not lost here at St. Isidore.

Unfortunately, where ever there are generous givers, there are people who will try to abuse generosity; take as much as they can for themselves regardless of "need." In the years I managed a food pantry in the inner city, I experienced a few (probably only two or three out of three or four hundred) people who seemed unashful about driving up to a food pantry in a Mercedes SUV. One recipient returned a box of Cheerios, because his children only ate Sugar Frosted Flakes. [I suggested that perhaps his children weren't hungry enough.] Yet, the overwhelming majority of people who received food from our pantry were in desperate need, and extremely gracious and grateful. [One person was so grateful, that when she finally got a job, she organized a food drive where she worked and invited her Baptist church to contribute food to our pantry.] Every Thanksgiving and Christmas, we would get hand crafted cards from people thanking us for being there in their need. We were Christians, where else could we be?

As Christians we are challenged to be good stewards of our generosity. The Archdiocese of Detroit, along with the USCCB, expends tremendous efforts to identify charitable organizations who actually provide the benefits they raise money toward. Just because an appeal comes with the name of a priest or bishop, does not mean that organization is necessarily a good steward of the monies they receive. But, these are examples of possessions we have a right to give away, or not, and to what degree. There are though, things that lie outside the boundaries of rightful possession – principle among these are PEOPLE. A moral argument against slavery demands that no person can be owned by another person or corporate entity. The Civil War was fought in America primarily over this fundamental principle.

Another critical "possession" that can never legitimately be offered "for sale" or "trade" is one's nation. Nations are not areas of land mass, they are people connected by history, by values, by principles. Nations can only be lived in, they are the possessions of all people. We can, here in America, legitimately call ourselves Americans as an Identity only, not as "sole possessors" of territory.

CSA MINUTE

"We Are Witnesses: Taking Back the Night – Taking Back the Community," an initiative of the Black Catholic Ministry Office, will take place on the streets of the Archdiocese throughout September.

Catholics will meet at 9 p.m. to pray, sing, and join in fellowship with their brothers and sisters in the community on the street corners near the Detroit parishes of Nativity from September 4-7, St. Augustine and St. Monica from September 10-14, St. Mary's of Redford from September 17-21, and St. Charles Lwanga from September 24-28.

Your CSA gifts allow our Archdiocese to minister to African American Catholics and predominantly African American parishes through the archdiocesan Office for Black Catholic Ministry. The office's mission is to highlight, enhance, and celebrate the contributions of those in the black Catholic community as they share their gifts with the Church and society.
